More about me

At 18 I started my career as a direct personal care worker at an adult family home. While in the position I realized that my passion was giving back and helping people so they are able live independent lives. I graduated with a bachelor's in vocational rehabilitation. Since graduating I have worked with a variety of populations in many roles within the community healthcare system. This has given me insight into the big picture of services available for those with disabilities. I have lived in Wisconsin throughout my life and have loved all things Wisconsin. I recently got married, and together we have three cats. In my free time I enjoy reading, finding new recipes to cook and spending time with my family on the river.
